

Our PHSCE Curriculum

Intent

At Bushbury Hill Primary School, we feel personal, social and health education (PSHE) enables our children to become healthy, independent and responsible members of a society. It aims to help them understand how they are developing personally and socially, and tackles many of the moral, social and cultural issues that are part of growing up. We provide our children with opportunities for them to learn about rights and responsibilities and appreciate what it means to be a member of a diverse society. Our children are encouraged to develop their sense of self-worth by playing a positive role in contributing to school life and the wider community. It is our intent to make the curriculum accessible to all pupils. We intend to design a 'balanced and broadly-based curriculum which promotes the spiritual, moral, cultural, mental and physical development of pupils which prepares them for the opportunities and responsibilities and experiences in later life. As a result of our PSHE curriculum we intend for our children to know how to be safe and to understand and develop healthy relationships both now and in their future lives.

Implementation

The school curriculum will focus on three core learning themes: health and wellbeing, relationships and living in the wider world. Cross-curricular links will be made to National Curriculum subjects, British Values, SMSC and the WellBeing passport. Assemblies will also regularly carry a PSHE theme and link to the SUMO Principles taught.

Impact

The effective teaching of PSHE will impact upon the pupils in the following ways: They will develop positive and healthy relationships with their peers both now and in the future. They will understand the physical aspects involved in RSE at an age appropriate level. They will have respect for themselves and others. They will have positive body images They understand a range of emotions and how to deal with them.
